His Majesty King Mohammed VI, May God Assist Him
"Many significant achievements have been made in the area of education and training, as indicated, in particular, by the increase in school enrolment rates, especially that of girls. We owe this to the commendable work carried out by the men and women involved in the education sector.

Nevertheless, we still have a long, arduous journey ahead of us if we are to enable this sector to actually play its role as an engine for the achievement of economic and social advancement. In this connection, we cannot but ask this pressing question: Why is it that so many of our young people cannot fulfill their legitimate professional, material and social aspirations?"

Excerpt from the speech given by His Majesty King Mohammed VI, May God Assist Him, on the occasion of the 60th anniversary of the Revolution of the King and the People, on August 20th 2013.

THE CITIZEN, OUR CORE COMMITMENT

Vulnerable populations are the main concern of OCP Foundation; that is why the Foundation implements human development activities at the national and international level.
HUMAN DEVELOPMENT, OUR CORE PRIORITY

In 2013, the OCP Entrepreneurship Network program was established by OCP Foundation in order to encourage entrepreneurship and to support innovative projects that provide new employment opportunities.

NATIONAL PRESENCE

In order to optimize its work of geographical proximity to the targeted populations, 14 regional representations strengthen the presence of OCP Foundation in the Kingdom of Morocco.
INTERNATIONAL PRESENCE

Within the framework of the South-South cooperation, OCP Foundation works to implement more agricultural development projects in India and Africa. These projects are initiated by OCP Foundation, meeting the needs of local populations.
We believe that the availability of our human resources is essential to achieve the goals we have set: indeed, the staff training, their qualifications and skills contribute closely to strengthen the Foundation. For us, human resources are a strategic sector; its development goes hand in hand with the growth of OCP Foundation’s activities.

TRANSPARENT AND EFFECTIVE PROCESSES

As part of a transparent and efficient project selection process, we handle project funding requests in two ways:

- Through partners which comply with the rules of governance. The projects that we support must, generally speaking, have a significant and structuring impact in their areas of intervention.
- Through requests handled directly by our agricultural, social and cultural programs.

This process is achieved following the receipt of unsolicited proposals, calls for projects or internal requests (specific to OCP Foundation and OCP Group). Each project is carefully reviewed through a transparent and thorough process with the participation of the applicant as well as internal and external experts (see Chart p. 21).

SMALL FARMERS ON THE ROAD TO SUCCESS

OCP Foundation helps enhancing small farmers' incomes and living conditions. Through the Agricultural Development program, development projects are implemented with the aim of contributing to ensuring food security in Morocco and throughout the world.
As part of its efforts to modernize the Moroccan agriculture, the Agricultural Development Program contributes to the implementation of the new strategy related to the development of the Agricultural Council, backed by the “Green Morocco Plan”. In order to achieve it, several actions are carried out in respect to agriculture, such as development projects, from awareness-raising activities to best practices as well as issue-based caravans. The caravans tour many regions in Morocco and provide soil analysis sessions, training sessions and demonstration plots for the benefit of small farmers. Moreover, through South-South cooperation, OCP Foundation also supports sustainable development projects for small farmers in India and soon in Africa.

EXTENSION AMONG BREEDERS IN THE RHAMNA REGION OF CATTLE FEED BASED ON CACTUS PLANT SILAGE

OCP Foundation supports breeders in the Rhamna region, enabling them to produce meat and other animal products at competitive prices.

How was your experience of this project?

“Through the guidance of OCP Foundation, the DPA* of Rhamna, the INRA, and ANOC, small farmers benefited from advice and technical training and follow-up. This project was the first of its kind in our region.

We were pleased to see excellent positive results thanks to the cactus-based animal feed with regard to the lambs’ weight gain. We actually noticed a remarkable growth with an outstanding conformation of our cattle.”

Adnane Farih
Project manager at the OCP Foundation

How was this project beneficial to farmers in the Rhamna area?

“For the Rhamna region, this project was an excellent way of helping breeders produce sheep meat and other products at competitive prices using unconventional by-products like cactus. Learning to use cactus silage contributed to building technical and sheep farming management capacities of farmers in the Rhamna region.

Field results have demonstrated the remarkable efficiency of this product as animal feed for the fattening and suckling of lambs. Furthermore, milk production has known a significant improvement compared to the rest of my livestock that is conventionally farmed.”

TESTIMONIALS: AN AGRICULTURAL PROJECT IN INDIA

CLOSURE OF THE AES* PROJECT IN THE STATE OF KARNATAKA

As part of integrated development projects in India, the OCP Foundation works for the popularization of good agricultural practices, in order to increase both the yields and incomes of small farmers.

What was the impact of OCP Foundation agricultural extension project, in the Northern State of Karnataka, on the living conditions of small farmers?

“The extension project was an integrated agricultural development project launched in 2010 by OCP Foundation, in partnership with ISAP, the main objective being the improvement of soil fertility. The focus was on preserving and improving the soil and crops, and the use of appropriate seeds and technologies to modernize and strengthen sustainable agriculture.

The success of this initiative was essentially based on the involvement of small farmers, who collaborated fully during the program with the outreach support provided by OCP Foundation.

At the closing of the project on November 16 & 17th, a farmer participating in one of the workshops, came to testify about the difficult situation of Indian farmers. Given the inadequacy of their agricultural yields, farmers were crumbling under accumulated debts and many felt there was no way out but suicide. For this farmer, joining the OCP Foundation project meant he was able to break free from the vicious circle of poverty.

The use of information technologies was beneficial thanks to the large mobile network coverage in India, even reaching remote rural areas. A call center set up by OCP Foundation helped respond to the queries of small farmers. Data sheets were made available to technicians in the local language in order to meet farmers’ specific needs.”

What benefits have you gained from the program implemented by the OCP Foundation?

“We have benefited greatly from valuable advice regarding production techniques. We learned how to use new technologies, for example, concerning the production of peas. Soil analysis, row planting, planting density, integrated nutrient management are new concepts for us that have undoubtedly led to a change in the field: the yield has almost doubled!

We also had many difficulties marketing our products. Today, we sell the processed pulses at prices which we had never dreamed of, thanks to the crushing and conditioning machine offered to our organization.

This project has brought radical changes to our lives and we are very grateful to OCP and ISAP for the implementation of this program in our region.”

The “Solidarity Agents” program was launched in 2012 and closed in 2013. The same year, OCP Foundation launched two calls for projects in favor of Moroccan associations:

1 - Income-Generating Activities for Socio-Economic Development: Such activities provide a socioeconomic alternative to the most deprived populations at a national level and in the areas where OCP Group operates;

2 - Solidarity Agents who promote citizenship development: Young recruits, known as “Solidarity Agents”, have to implement structuring projects among those developed by the associations and cooperatives, both partners with the “Solidarity Agents Program” in the following fields: education, access to healthcare and local animation.

More than 300 partners and associations were thus involved in these projects alongside OCP Foundation and sites.
ASSOCIATIONS MEETINGS
SOLIDARITY AGENTS

This first edition was a major success with our various stakeholders and provided the opportunity of assessing the project.

What was the contribution of the “Solidarity Agents” to your association?

“OCP young trainees' contributions within the association was beneficial in several ways, including by their diverse past experiences and the plurality of their skills. This allowed a diversification of their areas of intervention while achieving the objectives expected by our association.”

Abdelali Khallad
Representative of the Chouâlla Association for Education and Culture in Essaouira

What do you think about the “Solidarity Agents” program?

“Combining two core values of social commitment - “organized” volunteer work and solidarity-, the “Solidarity Agents” initiative is undoubtedly crucial to OCP Foundation activities and demonstrates its contribution in to social development at the national and local levels. The purpose of this event was to bring together stakeholders from 200 different Moroccan partner associations over three days, during a plenary followed by three workshops addressing each of the topics related to community work.

Discussions focused on the first year’s assessment of the “Solidarity Agents” project as well as on its reinforcement and sustainability.

Subsequent to these meetings, the partners adopted a series of recommendations relating to building the associations’ capacities, mobilizing the human and technical resources as well as financial autonomy of partner associations, with the aim of highlighting their role as committed citizens involved in Moroccan civil society.

The primary motivation for the “Solidarity Agents” program was raising awareness and strengthening the spirit of solidarity among young OCP recruits while creating enabling conditions for a promising partnership of true social value with the national and local associations.”

In 2013, the activities carried out under the Youth Support program focused on two major points:

1- Supporting Youth Employability: Providing training for young people seeking employment and promoting entrepreneurship;

2- Supporting Higher Education and Research: Financially supporting young students through scholarship programs and by promoting the development of quality higher education.

These activities are based on the values of OCP Group, such as solidarity, responsibility, citizenship, transparency, equality of opportunity and gender equality.
OCP FOUNDATION
AND INJAZ AL-MAGHRIB

OCP Foundation supports the INJAZ Al-Maghrib Association in promoting the entrepreneurship awareness program known as "Company Program" in the areas where OCP Group operates.

What was the contribution of INJAZ Al-Maghrib to your project?

“ My first introduction to the entrepreneurial world was through the INJAZ Al-Maghrib’s “Company Program”. It was rewarding on a personal level. INJAZ officials contacted me to join their new “Smart Start” program. Along with three other students, I chose the field of sustainable development.

We successfully developed a bioreactor that creates compost at reduced manufacturing cost.

We filed an improvement patent with OMPIC*. The support of INJAZ Al-Maghrib mentors was crucial as they helped us along all the steps of the way and oversaw the preparation of a business plan. We met every week for six months to determine the strategies to be implemented.

In addition, we also benefited from coaching sessions to develop our potential and self-confidence.

I think project promoters should not remain isolated in their entrepreneurship projects. When you have the support you need, you are no longer afraid of becoming an entrepreneur!”

Hanane Mekraoui
President of Junior Company Bionat

What did OCP Foundation offer you as a partner?

“The OCP Foundation enabled INJAZ Al-Maghrib to deploy its entrepreneurship education programs in El Jadida, Khouribga and Safi and plan the implementation of these programs in Laayoune, Béni Mellal and Youssoufia. A total of 2100 young people benefited from these courses over 3 years with the involvement of the OCP “Alliance des Hors Cadres” (ACO) members, acting as volunteer mentors.

INJAZ Al-Maghrib is pleased to count on OCP Foundation as a strategic partner which supports us to achieve our ambitions for national outreach.”

OCP Policy Center aims to foster the debate on international relations, as well as thoughts on the main challenges of economic, social and environmental policies at regional and national levels. The think tank also contributes to scientific research through independent analytical publications and a leading research associates’ network.
PROMOTING POLICIES CONDUCIVE TO GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

Through independent analytical texts and a research partner and associates’ network, the OCP Policy Center aims at contributing to reinforce economic issues and international relations which play a key role in the future of Morocco and the African continent. As part of its programs, the think tank is actively engaged in the analysis of public policies and the promotion of international cooperation conducive to the growth and development of emerging countries, particularly in Africa.

The OCP Policy Center focuses its efforts on four main areas: Economic and social development - Agriculture, sustainable value chains, and environment - Raw materials savings - Major global and regional developments that affect the future of a “global” Morocco.

At the same time, the “Emerging Leaders” program, set up alongside with the Conference mentioned below, provides a space for expressing views and a platform which brings together a new generation of leaders in the fields of politics, economics, entrepreneurship and civil society among others.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

The city of Rabat hosted the second edition of the international conference called "Atlantic Dialogues". This annual event is organized by the OCP Policy Center and the German Marshall Fund (GMF); a think tank whose main mission is the promotion of transatlantic relations. Nearly 400 decision makers from, among others, government and corporate sectors met to discuss regional issues ranging from security to economy, immigration and energy.
What is your point of view on the "Emerging Leaders Program"?

“I participated as an ‘Emerging Leader’ in the "The Atlantic Dialogues” Conference in 2013. It was a unique opportunity for me to become aware of certain strategic points for OCP Group and to interact with exceptional leaders on various policy issues affecting the Atlantic basin.

Furthermore, I was also honored to be the spokeswoman of OCP Group and had to represent Morocco as a country of dialogue, peace, stability and openness to the world.

This highly popular Conference also offered me a special insight on issues that resonate beyond our borders and, above all, my participation in this event made me want to see Morocco continue to maintain strong relationships with other countries and one day become a fully developed country with sustainable links to peer nations.”

What stood out for you during your participation as a Young Leader and what did it offer you in terms of personal development?

“I kept nice memories from when I was a member of the Young Leaders Program. We had late night work sessions around global challenges in the fields of politics, economics and security. The themes were addressed by speakers and participants in a relaxed and informal atmosphere. It was, in fact, one of my best memories. Thanks to this program, I was encouraged to make important decisions in my career that I would not have dared to make before. The positive feedback I got after the meetings with other participants during the "Young Leaders Program" increased my network of business contacts and encouraged me to further develop it.”

Greetings from America Young Leader 2013
Initiated at the end of 2013, the OCP Entrepreneurship Network aims to provide comprehensive support to entrepreneurship in order to improve the economic fabric and create new opportunities for sustainable employment.
Relying on a network of partners, the OCP Entrepreneurship Network aims to boost the entrepreneurial ecosystem through:

- Promoting entrepreneurship;
- Technical and financial support for the creation of new structures;
- Supporting the growth of existing businesses;
- Encouraging innovation, women’s entrepreneurship and social entrepreneurship;
- Developing cooperatives and income generating activities.

The network approach is focused on business opportunity and sustainability.

The OCP Entrepreneurship Network approach is based on four key factors:

Entrepreneurial Mindset: Information, awareness, promotion activities and programs on entrepreneurship.

Entrepreneurial Skills: Coaching and training in entrepreneurial skills.

Entrepreneurial Resources: Programs and activities providing entrepreneurs with the necessary resources for business incubation, boosting, and funding.

Connections - networks and market access: Programs and activities allowing entrepreneurs to come out from their isolation, expand their networks and access to markets.
The Morocco Startup Cup is a business model competition and a business booster that supports start-ups. Thirty innovative startups have been supported and advised by experts and investors.

How did you benefit from the OCP Entrepreneurship Network as a partner?

“The OCP Entrepreneurship Network has enabled us to become more adept at coaching and advising entrepreneurs in many areas of Morocco. With this support, we have not only shaped our association, recruited a full-time team, expanded our network mentors, and increased our number of financial sponsors but we also significantly and sustainably strengthened our impact. In the field, we went from 4 to 12 Startup Weekend events per year, from 4 to 12 towns and 480 to 1,600 entrepreneurs per year. In addition, we launched the first edition of the Startup Cup, an international competition in Morocco which was renewed in 2014. All this would not have been possible without the OCP Entrepreneurship Network.”

What did the OCP Entrepreneurship Network offer to the entrepreneurial ecosystem?

“I had the idea of launching a start-up with high social impact by exporting couscous. With the support of OCP Entrepreneurship Network and its partners, I was able to improve my business plan, find a sponsor in Silicon Valley and secure over MAD 250,000 funding. Today, I am part of MassChallenge in Boston and most of the merit goes to OCP Entrepreneurship Network. My couscous is now sold in the US and I employ 15 women from rural areas.”

Why did you choose EMINES (School of Industrial Management) at the Mohammed VI Polytechnic University?

“After the preparatory courses for university, it appealed to me as a brilliant institution. As one of the best engineering schools, it offers a degree that would allow a fast integration into the labour market or access to research.

EMINES, the School of Industrial Management at the Mohammed VI Polytechnic University, seemed to me to be the best post-prep choice possible, and so far I am largely satisfied. EMINES offers very good work conditions allowing me as a first year student of engineering studies to learn satisfactorily, and to have opportunities outside of class of consolidating my knowledge.”

Why did you choose the EMINES School of Industrial Management?

“Coming from a mining town, my passion for industrial fields finds its roots in my childhood. After analyzing the different possibilities in terms of higher education, I decided that the Industrial Engineer Management training offered by EMINES was the most suited for industrial chemicals business.

On one hand, training at EMINES is based on practice, knowledge and mastery of theoretical tools; on the other hand, it prepares future engineers for the business world by teaching the real problems that someday we will be facing.

We are provided with convenient and optimal living and working conditions that allow us to learn while having a fulfilling life.”
